The Law Reports¹

(AC QB Ch & Fam)

Reporting The Law Reports which represent the benchmark in law reporting. They are the most authoritative reports of the U.K. and must always be cited in preference.

Periodicity: Monthly

Year of commencement: 1865

Selection of Cases

Typically, The Law Reports cover cases which introduce new principles or rules of law or modify significant existing laws.

The Law Reports give a fuller treatment to cases reported in Volumes 2 and 3 of The Weekly Law Reports which are considered to be of particular interest, which introduce new principles or rules of law or modify existing ones, which settle or materially settle questions upon which the law is doubtful or vague or which for any reason reform or develop the law.

Separate volumes are produced for the Appeal Cases (AC), Queen's Bench (QB), Chancery and Family (Ch and Fam)

Distinguishing feature between The Weekly Law Reports and The Law Reports is that The Law Reports include arguments of Counsel.

The Law Reports cover cases heard in:

- a) Appeal Cases in the House of Lords and Privy Council, b) Queen's Bench Division,
- c) Chancery Division, d) Family Division

Format

The Law Reports are published monthly on a calendar year basis and divided into sections covering 1) Appeal Cases in the House of Lords and Privy Council (AC), 2) the Queen's Bench Division (QB), and 3) the Chancery and Family Divisions (Ch and Fam).

Supreme Court Education Cases (SCEC) 1969 to 2018

(In 8 Volumes)

A Mini Law Report on Education Cases

Sumeet Malik

B.A., LL.B. (Hons.) (NLS), LL.M. (IP) (Franklin Pierce)

Advocate, Supreme Court

Associate Editor: Supreme Court Cases™

Cases on Minority Rights (Religious, Linguistic and Denominational) and Reservation based on Domicile and Institution, Capitation Fees, Fee Structure, Common Entrance Exams and Medium of Instruction for Teaching etc.

Special Features

This mini law report on this important area of law is designed to bring to you all the judgments of the Supreme Court on this subject. The current set of 8 volumes (designated as Permanent Volumes 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 & 8) cover all the cases on the subject from 1969 to 2018, and carry the same pagination as the law report, 'Supreme Court Cases', and hence are immediately citable in any court of law. The work carries dual citation – that of SCEC and SCC.

Since the subject is of interest to a lot of minority and linguistic Educational Institutions and non-legal individuals, apart from the legal community, special effort has been made to make the work easy to refer and comprehend. Hence a very elaborate and simplified 'Index to the Cases' at the beginning of each volume makes reference and finding the relevant law, quick and easy even for the layman.

Beautifully printed on superior paper and export quality binding with imported rexine and gold foil lettering.
